The Christian church ha made much use of this word, bu it might be clearer if we use some other words sometimes. A churchés will tell young people and new converts how important it is to "confess" Christ. We could jus as well say "standing up for" him voting for him and having one' vote put on record. When Christ asks: Are you with me? Confessi Christ Never Outranked There is something else tied up in this idea of "confessing" Christ. It includes saying something about Christ. Peter's confession, according to Matthew, was "You are the Christ, the Son of the living God.' Luke reports that he said, "You are the Christ of God." Mark reports simply: "You are the Christ All agree that Peter declared Jesu to be the Christ. To us, "Christ" is a name; to Peter it was a title, the highest title he knew. When a first-century Jew used the work "Christ" he meant there was n one else in his class. He mear God's chosen beginner of a new age. There was no higher word that Peter could have chosen than 'Christ.' So to this day when we say that a Christian confesses Christ, we ought to mean that he puts Christ above all others, that ne knows no one can outrank Christ. We mean what the old hymn says, "All hail the power of Jesus' name, let angels prostrate

More than Mouth-Christians But there is still another word the church has always used, because Jesus used it: Follow. Confession alone is not enough. It may take courage to confess Christ, I takes sincerity and also stick-to-itiveness to follow him. Confession can be done in a burst of enthusiasm; following takes the long pull Confessing Christ means saying h comes first in your life. But doe he? Who or what is really firs There are a great many-too man -church members today who have been as much of a Christian a they can possibly be-with their

But when they "joined the church" or were "confirmed, that is about as far as it went. They hardly even warm a pew nowa days. What is needed is something more than mouth-Christians, voice Christians, word-Christians, shout ing Christians. What is needed is ollowing-Christians. It is noticeable that almost im mediately after Jesus had praised Peter for his confession, he called him Satan, the very devil. For it was plain that Peter was thinking along lines quite different from
